

Robert Weissman is president of the consumer and democracy advocacy organization Public Citizen and the chair of the Coalition for Sensible Safeguards, a 100+-member coalition of small business, labor, consumer, faith, health and environmental organizations joined in the belief that our country's system of regulatory safeguards provides a stable framework that secures our quality of life and paves the way for a sound economy that benefits us all. He is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School.